THE CRAZY APPLE OF NUM NUM LAND

Once upon a time, there was a crazy apple. He lived in Num Num Land. He did crazy things. He jumped in to a dumpster full of rotten apples. He found his friend sitting in the dumpster and he saw that his friend was rotten. He was heartbroken, so he did some crazy things. He went and dove into a puddle of lava. He came out nice and crisp. Then, he went and dove in a bowl of syrup and came out as a candied apple. Then he went to a fair and got sad seeing other apples getting eaten and thrown in to the same dumpster that his rotten friend was in.

After eating a big kernel of popcorn he went and climbed up to the top of the Ferris wheel. When he was at the top he jumped down and went splatty. By then he was a bruised mess. After he got thrown in the dumpster again, he sat with his friend Frankadoddle. Frankadoddle said, "You look like garbage." Then the crazy apple said," That's not very nice." So, they both had a long, sad moment and eventually they both ended up in a sad mush. Then a cow came along and knocked over the dumpster. The two mushed apples flew right through a windowpane into an office, dripping their mush on everyone's suit. The people of Num Num Land chased the mushed apples as they were flying in the air. Finally, the people of the land gave a big cry for the mushed apples to go, and they did.

They were in the woods outside Num Num Land and came upon the town's compost center. They tried to make friends with the people in charge but they were recognized from Wanted posters. Frankadoodle jumped into the compost to hide, but the crazy apple was caught and went to JAIL!! Frankadoodle left with all his stuff. Then the crazy apple ate himself a little bit and slipped through the bars.

The apple fainted on his journey and he woke up outside of a school where kids were singing a concert. He thought it was going to be a good day and said, "nothing can happen to me like a diesel locomotive falling on my head." Then, a huge diesel locomotive fell from the sky and squished him into a hole. Inside the hole he said, "at least 26 love rockets can't come and kiss me." And then, guess what? It happened. 26 love rockets came and kissed him. Then a giant cow that was chewing gum came and blew one big bubble and it landed on the crazy apple and floated him up to heaven. And then it stank to high heavens. Then the crazy apple rode another bubble back down to Earth, away from the place that was stinking to high heavens. The apple escaped the gum and was forever alive.

He was now on a super yacht, partying and rocking to the core. The apple saw a little spider on the boat and he said, "SPIDER!" He took an anvil and tried to throw it on the spider. He missed, and made a hole in the boat. The broken ship began to tip and sank into the murk.

The apple survived and lives to tell the tale. A boat picked him up that was passing by on the way to Appleton Farms. The boat was carrying a cow, but this one fortunately was not chewing gum. The apple has a lot of friends now at Appleton Farms, like cows, horses, chickens, goats and all the animals that you usually find on farms. The farmer is a very nice person. He gives the crazy apple a lot of good care and everything he needs. Frankadoodle even came to visit and brought the crazy apple all his stuff back.

I know all this because I am the apple's Dad. I had the same crazy adventures when I was a younger apple. I still have a lot of big bruises from those days, and I remember it like it was yesterday.
