

Sunny's Talent

Once upon a night in a land far, far away, there were four birds born. They were Squaky the falcon, Sunny the bluebird, Rocky the bald eagle and Lightning the red-tailed hawk. They were best friends but sometimes they did not get along because when it came to running Sunny always fell behind.

One afternoon on Tuesday after gym the birds were coming out of school. Sunny had a bad day because she came in last in a race. She said, "I am not good at anything". Then Squaky said, "hey look, a talent show poster, maybe I can be in the talent show". "Sunny, you are good at something but you totally are not athletic" said Squaky. "Rocky is strong, Lightning is fast and I am good at flying. You will find your talent eventually.

Sunny said, "I want to be in a talent show but I don't know what to do. Sunny sighed and thought to herself that she would never have a talent. The birds went home and practiced their talents.

Days went by and finally it was time for the talent show. First Sunny read a beautiful story she wrote. It was about her best friends. Next a pig painted a beautiful painting of a sunflower. Last but not least Squaky flew really high.

The judge gave out the awards. "Sunny wins!" said the judge. Sunny was so happy. She then found her talent, which was writing stories. "Well I guess I do have a talent", she said. "I always told you that you were good at something," said Squaky. When Sunny grew up she wrote books about adventures she had as a child. She became a famous writer and everyone loved her stories.