4-S Scene: The Music Center

This is the Music Center. It is in downtown Los Angeles. There are three theaters at the Music Center. There are two large theaters and a small round one between the two large ones. This is the Chandler Pavilion. The L.A. Philharmonic Orchestra is here every fall, winter, and spring.

This is the stairway to the Music Center plaza. There is a sculpture at the top of the stairs. There is another sculpture on the plaza. There is a flagpole between the two pieces of sculpture. A man and a woman are in the doorway sculpture. Now, they are next to the other sculpture.

This is the parking lot for the Music Center. It is under the theaters. Parking is $4.00. There are two men near the parking lot sign.

I am on the stairs to the Music Center plaza. Now I am near the doorway sculpture. A lady with a camera and a purse is next to the sculpture.

Look at the statue through the doorway. A woman with a white dress and a tan bag is on the plaza near some trees. There is a bus with many tourists next to the curb.

This is a sign for events at the Music Center. This is the ticket office. A woman with a pink dress is at the ticket window of the Chandler Pavilion. There is also a ticket window at the round theater in the center.

It is a beautiful day here. Many people come to concerts at the Music Center every day.

I am still hungry. Let's go to a restaurant near the Music Center across the street. There are many new buildings near the Music Center. This one is very new. That new one is on the site of the new California Plaza.

There is a plaza in front of the restaurant over there. There are fountains, trees, benches, tables and chairs in the plaza. A man is on a bench next to a table with a newspaper. There are six tables in front of the restaurant. There is a blue awning above the door. There is a man inside the restaurant with a glass in his hand. Let's go in. It's open!

There is a man with a red shirt behind the counter. Look at the food. It looks good! There is meat, cheese, bread, pasta, salads, sandwiches, and pastries. Those are croissants. The man put the croissants into the white paper bag. The man with the chain around his neck put the sack on the counter.

Let's go out. What a beautiful day! It isn't hot and it isn't cold. It is very nice outside. There is City Hall. It is in the center of downtown L.A.

4-D Dialog

- Richard: What street are we on?
Susan: We're on Figueroa.
Susan: Now we're on the Harbor Freeway. Look at the tall buildings.
Richard: Is that downtown L.A. in front of us?
Susan: Yes, it is. There's a mural.
Richard: There's another mural.
Susan: Look. There are others across the freeway on the left.
Richard: What are those buildings?
Susan: They're the Arco towers. Ah, there's 4th Street. We take 4th Street to Hope Street and then Hope Street to the Music Center.
Richard: Is this the Music Center on the right?
Susan: No, it's the new Crocker Center. There's a good Chinese restaurant in the lobby.
Richard: Is that the Music Center over there?
Susan: No, that's the new California Center. Here's the Music Center with the sculpture on the plaza.
Richard: How many theaters are there here?
Susan: There are three. The Chandler Pavilion in front of us, the Mark Taper Forum, the round theater in the center, and the Ahmanson theater, the large one behind the round one.
Richard: Where are we?
Susan: We're under the theaters in the Music Center parking lot.
Richard: Is there an elevator to the plaza?
Susan: Yes, there is, over there.
Richard: It's nice here! The sculpture and water are beautiful. What's the name of that sculpture?
Susan: "Peace on Earth".
Richard: Are you ever here in the evening for concerts?
Susan: Yes, I often come to the orchestra concerts.
Richard: Is the L.A. Philharmonic here now?
Susan: Yes, they're here from September to June.
Richard: Let's go to a concert this week.
Susan: OK!

Richard: What night's good for you?
Susan: Friday is OK for me. Is Friday OK for you?
Richard: Yeah! Where's the ticket office?
Susan: Over there.
Richard: Where?
Susan: Over there. There's a woman with blue pants at the ticket window.

Richard: Let's get three tickets.
Susan: How many?
Richard: Three. Two for us and one for Ann.
Susan: Oh yes, Ann.

Susan: Are you tired?
Richard: No, but I'm still hungry. Let's go to that restaurant where Ann is. What's the name of it again?
Susan: The Chez Vous restaurant.
Richard: Where is it?
Susan: Across the street in front of that little plaza.
Richard: Is there a bar in the restaurant?
Susan: Yes, there is, but you're hungry, aren't you?
Richard: Well, a little thirsty too.
Susan: Let's go over there.
