

Three Wishes

Chapter 1

Ted was so happy it was his birthday! He tripped down the stairs running and panting. His favorite breakfast was hot on the table. He ate like a hurricane in action. After breakfast, he ran to the front porch to see if any packages were there. Darn it! There wasn't even a tiny box. But there was an envelope that said, "From: nobody you know – yet." He got up to pick the letter up but the sound of music stopped him. The tune sounded like the Happy Birthday song. He scrambled to his feet and ran into the living room. His Dad, Mr. Stonebreaker, said "Happy Birthday!"

That night, Ted asleep so fast and before he knew it, it was morning. Ted got ready for school. He changed, packed his bag, and put on his sweatshirt. He walked down the road and went in the bus.

Chapter 2

When Ted got off the bus, he ran in the building. When he got in the classroom, he watched in terror as the teacher passed out their morning tests. They had 67 pages. Tim, the huge brain, was obviously all done.

When the teacher said, "Time is up!", Ted only had two pages done. Then Ted went to Spanish class and had to do another test. This time his test had 27 pages. Less but he didn't know any of it so he secretly drew instead. After that, there were a lot more tests that would be hard on my part as author so just think about the number of tests about 10 tests that day and that's a lot. After that he had to go home and went to his house.

Chapter 3

Ted went to his porch. The envelope that said "from nobody" was still there. He picked it up, stuck it in his pocket, and went upstairs. He took the note out of his pocket, opened it, and read. It said: "Look out your window tonight." Ted was confused so he stuffed it in his pocket and went downstairs. Then Mr. Stonebreaker called him for dinner: chili with bananas. Gross! So he just skipped dinner and went to bed at 5:45 PM! Early night it was!

That night, Ted went to the window. He could see a little dot, and when he looked more closely, there was a person with wings. It was the birthday genie. He asked Ted to make three wishes. Ted had to think quickly and then said, "My first wish is: No more tests! My second wish is: No more bad meals! My third wish is: Lots of good birthday presents!" Then the birthday genie was gone.

Ted ran downstairs as fast as he could. For dinner, instead of the chili and bananas, there was pizza and chips on the table. There were also huge boxes of presents in the living room! There was also a note home from school saying that there were no more tests because they were too hard for the kids. Ted had the best birthday after all!

The End
