

Lucille And The Rainbow Glitter Unicorn Horn

Once upon a time, there lived a beautiful unicorn. Her name was Lucille. Lucille had a happy life. The only problem was her horn. It was plain. It was white. It was boring.

“Ick,” said Lucille. “When will I ever get a rainbow glitter horn like everybody else in the whole entire world?”

“Not everybody in the world has that kind of horn. Only the brave, the strong, encouraging, and helpful have that kind of horn,” said Lucille’s mom.

The next day was a school day. “Time for breakfast!” said Lucille’s mom. When Lucille got downstairs her mom said, “I made your favorite!”

“Huh? Yes!”

It was french toast sticks and sausage. When she was done, she packed her bag and went to the bus stop. When the bus came she sat with her friend, Pearl. When she got to school she said good morning to her teacher and sat down to get ready for reading.

Then Billy the Bully said, “Look at Lucille's horn!”

“Haha!” Everyone laughed. “It's white!”

Lucille jumped out of her seat and ran away. She didn’t run home and didn’t run to her favorite oak tree, but instead to the Tiny Trim Woods. She asked an owl where the river was.

“Right this way,” he said.

“Thanks!” she replied.

On the way. Lucille heard something that sounded like someone shouting “Help!” She looked to her left and saw a wolf trying to eat a little baby bear! She couldn't let it get hurt. She knew what had to be done.

“Stop!” she said. Then, all of a sudden, her horn began to glow and shimmer. It turned rainbow and glittery and then POW! The wolf was gone!

The little bear ran over and said “Thank you for saving me. You’re so beautiful!”

“Thank you!”

The next day at school everyone wanted to know what had happened and they all wanted their horn to be like hers.

The End

The lesson of this story is to always stand up for someone who is being bullied.
