

Meow Meow the Best

Meow Meow the Terrible is a pirate, the best cat pirate anyone can imagine, with a very powerful 'Cute Eyes' skill. He is an orange cat with a little black sailor's hat and an eyepatch over his left eye.

The problem was, he didn't really have a ship. That was Meow Meow's one thing he didn't have, apart from not having a crew. And if he didn't have a ship or a crew, then he couldn't sail to Germany to find treasures like chests full of gold and rubies. So he didn't have any money either.

Meow Meow raided the towns; well, he didn't really raid the towns, he just took his hat off and did 'Cute eyes' and it was undeniable so they had to give him the moola. Meow Meow would walk down the street, and ask a stranger, "Excuse me, can I have $10 please?" The stranger would say "no way, get outta here!" And then Meow Meow did 'Cute eyes'. It was unbearable so they gave him the moola.

He saved up that money to get a crew, which were all Hamsters. One Hamster was named Squeak Squeak Bitey; the other was named Shiver me Squeak; the last one was named Pudding of the Seas. And this was his crew. He bought them at a very trendy store called P Crew, P was short for pirate and every patched and hooked criminal out there was a dedicated customer. P was also short for Patched and Private. They also had a successful loyalty scheme with great deals around Christmas. For example, Squeak Squeak Bitey once got a BOGO offer for sea salt and so he got one for Shiver me Squeak and another for Pudding of the Seas, who were very happy with the gift and put it in their baths.

Now that Meow Meow got his crew, he needed money to buy a ship. Of course, all the hamsters were poor, so he went to the fortune teller's office of Bookling the Cat. Meow Meow was looking for some wisdom.

Bookling gazed at MM, then into the magic crystal ball and then she looked at mm again. She took one more long glance at the crystal ball; her eyes looked up at MM quickly, and then she said 'Your hamster crew is very loyal, and you will find money in time but you first must journey on a short, less than 200-word quest, through the Cat Litter landfill site down the road. There, underneath the second clumpy mountain of waste, you will have to dig to find the old..' just then, a juicy rat ran past and Bookling jumped out the window, leaving Meow Meow behind.

So Meow Meow left and took his crew. He said to the Hamsters, "Crew, can someone carry me?" and they all shouted 'Nooooo!' at the same time. And then Meow Meow said "aww man!"

Alone, he hiked up the terrible mountains of Cat Litter; he came to the second mountain and he did a little dance in between. And then he found a treasure chest poking out of the mountain so he started walking towards it. But then he got stuck in litter quick sand and was sinking fast! Just then, he felt a hand grab his paw and it was Shiver me Squeak. The whole crew came for him! Together, they dug out the treasure chest, and it was filled with moola.

But Meow Meow did not want the money. Instead, he said, "It's not the moola that's important; it's our friendship!"

So, they decided to give the moola to a hamster orphan in Germany. Then the Hamster crew called him Meow Meow the Best. Meow Meow never got his ship, but he was happy.

END