

Supergirls

Once upon a time, in Tootleland, there lived a bad guy named Fred and two supergirls named Coco and Margaret. Fred was tall, fat and pale and always wore black because that was his favorite color.

Coco and Margaret were best friends who were smart, kind and sometimes crazy! They had blond hair, hazel eyes, and wore pink dresses with yellow sequin lighting bolts that had super power in them. The Supergirls loved to talk and were friends with everyone in the city, everyone except Fred.

Normally, the Tootleland Police, protected the city from Fred's evil plans. But today, the police are were in Africa saving the animals.

Fred decided it would be the perfect day to take a trip to the bank. He went disguised as an old man, so no one could recognize him. He wore face paint and didn't wear his normal black clothes. Fred knew the bank had a secret door to a hidden room where all the money was kept. The money was stacked in piles in the hidden room, so Fred brought garbage bags to hide the money in, so it would look like he was carrying trash out of the bank.

When he got to the bank he said he was the new garbage man, there to collect the garbage. The Supergirls were put in charge of protecting the bank while the police were away and the bank manager was on vacation in Hawaii. They did not recognize Fred and let him right in. He quickly found the secret door and started filling his garbage bags with all the money from the hidden room. Fred had just brought the first few garbage bags outside when it started pouring rain. His face paint began to come off and the Supergirls realized who it was! Oh no! Fred was up to his old tricks and they needed to stop him.

The Supergirls jumped into action, shining their bright beams of light from the lightning bolts on their sequin dresses. The light blinded Fred, while the Supergirls blew their giant rainbow bubble blower and trapped Fred in a shimmering rainbow bubble. They called the police, who magically appeared, to put Fred in the Tootleland jail.

Finally, Fred had been caught for good! Tootleland had a fair to celebrate the brave Supergirls and the police who saved the city! Since the Supergirls were so kind, they visited Fred in jail and brought him food and talked to him so he wouldn't be lonely. Fred realized he had been mean and thanks to the Supergirls kindness he decided to he would be kind too. The Supergirls had saved the day again!

The End