

The Foodland Massacre

Foodland is a place made out of food. The inhabitants of Foodland had been mysteriously disappearing along with their houses and belongings. Mister Waffles is a delicious waffle who lives in Foodland.

One day, Mr. Waffles was walking down Blueberry Street, on Cake Mountain, and he walked back to his house, but as soon as he got in there, a ginormous hand grabbed his house. Thankfully, Mister Waffles jumped out of the house and fell on a slice of soft cheese. The good news was Mister Waffles didn't die but the bad news was that his house was destroyed by the ginormous hand.

He tried to figure out where the hand came from. It took a long time to try to figure it out but it didn't make any sense.

He didn't know what the creature was but he saw the color of it was like a peachy orange. Thankfully, his watermelon car was still there so he drove to the waffle store to get more waffles to rebuild his house.

The waffles were expensive. It cost one thousand golden gummies. But he had none of them.

So, he went to the golden gummy forest; finally, he found one thousand golden gummies growing on the gummy tree. There were mostly green and blue and yellow and red gummies but some were gold and he picked those.

He went back to his car with the golden gummies and he drove to the cake farm and he got out of his car and walked into the farm and he made a deal with the farmer. The deal was that if he did the farmer's work, then he would have to pay him two thousand golden gummies. The farmer said "yes, sounds like a good plan."

So then Mr. Waffles went to the gummy cows and milked them. It was syrup. Mr. Waffles was scared of syrup but he still had to do it. So he moved on to the chocolate egg chickens. He went to look in the nest and there were seven freshly laid chocolate eggs. Then he went to the Peppermint horses, and he fed them fresh candy canes. Mr. Waffles did this everyday for two months and then the farmer gave him the two thousand golden gummies. This was getting to be a really long side quest.

Then he went home, very tired. Just as he was about to splash his body with warm whipped cream and relax in his robe, his phone rang. It was the Foodland Lottery; he was a big winner! He found out he won 10 million golden gummies. When that happened, he said "yippee!" and forgot about his waffle house and with that many golden gummies, he could buy a waffle breaded mansion. So he went to the mansion store and he picked one that was made out of waffles, just like his old house. But it was a giant and had more rooms and other cool stuff. He even had his own amusement park! When all his friends found out, they were really really surprised. The next day, Mr. Waffles had a really big party for celebrating his good luck. The party had everything; it had ginger ale swimming pool and he even opened his amusement park with the red ribbon and he cut it with his giant scissors, snip!

Suddenly, the peachy monster came again. This time, the monster ripped his mansion out of place! So he said, "That is enough, this is war!" and he went to a mysterious store. He bought a map so he could travel to the peachy hand which he learned was attached to something called the body! As he started walking, the hand picked him up, smelled him, dipped him in syrup and threw him down the hatch of his stinky big mouth. He saw three screaming terrified blueberries in there and what looked to be pieces of a dead strawberry. But that was the last thing Mr. waffles saw. Rest in Peace Mr. Waffles.
