

Titans v.s. Patriots Football Game

Have you ever heard of "Bring an Animal to a Football Game Day"? No? Well, let me tell you why it will never ever happen again!

At the start of the football game Sarah McLachlan was singing the national anthem. They started the game. The Patriots were playing against the Titans. The Patriots have 14 points and the Titans almost have 100 points.

A Titans player grabbed at Tom Brady's helmet with his right hand. The referee blew the whistle and said, "No grabbing the bars of the helmet!" People were cheering for the Patriots and people were booing at the Titans.

A cat jumped out of the stands and started playing football. Tom Brady was so distracted by the cat that he threw the ball with his left hand. Since he's not used to throwing with that arm it got broken. The referee blew the whistle "Cat get off the field! That was a penalty for a cat!" he shouted. The EMS cart came to take Tom Brady off the field.

A few minutes later the game continued. Patriots scored and the Titans didn't like it. Then the referee blew the whistle because a dog jumped out and destroyed one of the Patriots players. The referee gave a penalty to the dog.

Despite being down two players, the Patriots scored and they had 91 points. Then a zebra jumped into the game and he brayed, "ZZZZZZZZZZ..." The whistle blew because a Titan's player threw his helmet off. The player was so surprised by the zebra, but the referee said he couldn't take his helmet off even if he was surprised by a zebra. A zookeeper had to come and take the zebra in a truck back to the zoo.

Finally the game is ending and the Patriots have scored enough points to win, but they never want to invite animals to the stadium again!
